

Set Up a Voter Registration Table

Please be sure all voter registration forms are postmarked by Friday, July 2nd!

Nothing attracts attention like an attractive voter registration table! Voter registration tables can be manned – or unmanned in a high traffic area.

Ideal times for a manned table are during lunch, breaks, or between shifts to encourage employees to register to vote. Consider a voter registration table at company picnics, at special events, or in a customer area.

Robert Keating and Kate Burch encouraged employees to register to vote and enjoy a cookie at their table at Topographic in Oklahoma City.

Place an unmanned table in a high traffic area.

- Announce dates, times and locations of your voter registration table. Post notices in the breakroom, lunchroom, timecard areas and public spaces, via email or company newsletter.
- Get attention! Put up a colorful voter registration table manned by enthusiastic staff in a high traffic area. Post a “Register to Vote Here” banner. Print it out, tape it together, and hang it above your voter registration table. See photo for example. If you wish, add balloons, music, or other energy-generating attractions.
- Offer a small treat to everyone who comes by. Cookies, candy or a snack makes it fun and helps spread the word. If an employee is already registered, thank them! Ask if they need a form for a family member.
- Put out “the basics” – Voter registration forms, absentee ballot applications, and a place to drop off completed applications. Check out frequently asked questions about voting.
- Determine an internal location where employees can drop off their completed forms for mailing if they don't wish to mail them personally. You can send the applications to the address on the registration form in one envelop.
