RON INSANA – KEYNOTE SPEAKER

As the world seeks to recover from the paralyzing effects of the pandemic, Ron Insana has been connecting the dots to give a clearer idea of what the economic future might look like. He'll offer a top-down view of the economy as it will likely evolve in the months ahead while recognizing the bottoms-up developments that will affect the day-to-day lives from Main Street to Wall Street. As a pioneering financial journalist, Ron has covered the most important economic stories of our lifetime over his nearly four decades on television.

Currently senior analyst and commentator with CNBC, Ron also hosts The Market Score Board Report, a thrice-daily nationally syndicated radio program. He has written for Money magazine, USA Today and authored four bestselling books.
